Griffs and Yankees Again Divide Bill---Papp Captures the Classic Futurity at $20,000

Griff's Mud Horses and Yankee Splashers Divide

Donovan's Crew Captures Opening Battle from Nationals, but Doc Ayers Comes Through and Locals Land Nightcap.

Clark Griffith and Bill Donovan staged their own little Futurity race yesterday at the American League track. Their entries—the Nationals and the Yankees—splashed themselves to a dead heat in this two-furlong race. It failed to be much of an attraction for the sport-loving public as only a few of the faithful braved the moist atmosphere which was chilled by the presence of "Jack Frost" to witness this twin classic.

Jockey George Du Mont, who rode Griff's entry at the start of the first furlong, failed to show any wonderful ability at riding opposite "Slim" Caldwell, who was up on the Yankees. In his wildness he was soon relieved of the piloting duty and the Texas rider, Bert Gallia, put in the saddle until within one length of the furlong pole, when Molly Craft, from old Virginia, finished the first half of the distance. Caldwell's work held the Nationals in check and the Yankees won, 2 to 0.

In the next furlong dash Doc Ayers was in the saddle for the Old Although he is of steeplechase fame he proved great ability at this flat hiking in the heavy, muddy going, as he turned in a 3-to-0 victory over Nick Cullop, of the left whip, and Rube Shocker.

The track was sure sloppy and made the going the heaviest it has been to date. Plays that would ordinarily have been easy chances were made difficult because of the lack of skates to keep the players from sliding on the well-greased infield, while hits labeled for lengthy distances fell dead in the mire. Outside track conditions under freezing circumstances two brilliant games of ball were played.

DETROIT IS BEST IN

The First Game.

The Nationals dropped the first contest became of the all-around generosity of George Du Mont, who started the hurling. Du Mont was as wild as a "March hare" and was lucky to get away with having only one run tailled against him during the three innings which he worked. The Fargo Express was touched for four bingles and issued five bases on balls during his term in the center of the diamond, besides contributing three wild pitches.

Hemingway to Giants.

END LOCAL SEASON

With the closing of the schedules of the various leagues, this year's tennis season is about over except for the District championship event which will be played this month on the courts of the Dumbarton club in Georgetown.

As a whole, the season was a very successful one. All of the leagues maintained their schedules throughout and ended with fairly close finishes for top honors.

Hemingway to Giants.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 8.—Chairman Herrmann, of the National Commission, today awarded the services of Infielder Hemingway, late of the Houston club, The Boston Americans laid claim to Hemingway's services, claiming that they had negotiated for Hemingway before the New York club did. The commission ruled that they had ample opportunity to close the deal for Hemingway and that due to their slackness New York had found time to complete the deal for the player.
